

Start of Block: Section 2 – Potential recipient questionnaire

Imagine that you are a potential recipient of an organ. This means that you are waiting to receive a deceased person's organ as part of your treatment. You will now be presented several aspects related to organ donation, and asked how much you trust different agents involved in the process. Use the slider to respond how much you trust or distrust each agent to commit to a specific task.

- I understand the instructions
-

If I were a potential recipient of an organ, I would trust that healthcare professionals will...

Not trust at all Somewhat not trust Somewhat trust Completely trust

0 10 20 30 40 50 60 70 80 90 100

Have a good communication with me during the process ()
Employ the best proven treatment ()
Monitor my recovery after the transplantation for as long as necessary ()

If I were a potential recipient of an organ, I would trust that the government and policymakers will...

Not trust at all Somewhat not trust Somewhat trust Completely trust

0 10 20 30 40 50 60 70 80 90 100

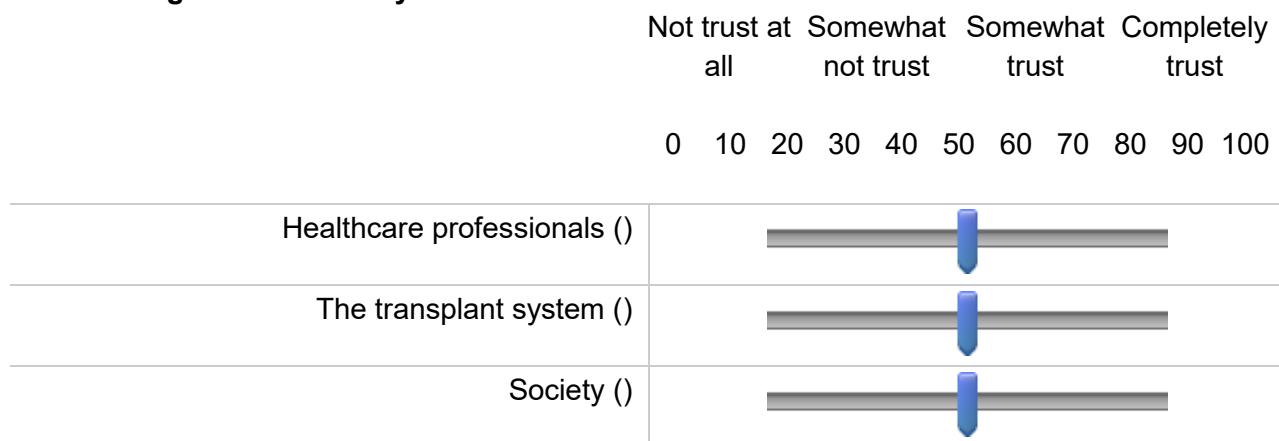

Try to make sure that the transplant will not be a financial burden to me ()
--	--

If I were a potential recipient of an organ, I would trust that the following agents will try to make sure all organs will be used appropriately to help me and others:

If I were a potential recipient of an organ, I would trust that the following agents will try to make sure all organs will be fairly distributed:

If I were a potential recipient of an organ, I would trust that the following agents will try to make sure all organs are used to save and improve lives:

If I were a potential recipient of an organ, I would trust that the following agents will try to make sure that my loved ones or myself will have available organs if we need them:

Is there anything else you would like to add to your answers in this block?

End of Block: potential recipient
