

Start of Block: Section 2 – Healthcare professionals' questionnaire

In the process of organ donation, one needs to trust on other people involved in the process. You will now be presented several of these aspects, and asked how much you trust different agents to respect them. Use the slider to respond how much you trust or distrust each agent to commit to a specific task.

- I understand the instructions (1)
-

In the context of organ donation, how much would you trust that the donor's family will...

Not trust at all   Somewhat not trust   Somewhat trust   Completely trust

0   10   20   30   40   50   60   70   80   90   100

Make decisions that are properly informed ()
Tell the truth regarding their wishes and the wishes of the deceased person ()

In the context of organ donation, how much would you trust that other healthcare professionals will have offered the best care to the patients and their families (e.g., have made efforts to save their life, have correctly diagnosed their death, or have respected the dignity of the death and the dead body)

Not trust at all   Somewhat not trust   Somewhat trust   Completely trust

0   10   20   30   40   50   60   70   80   90   100

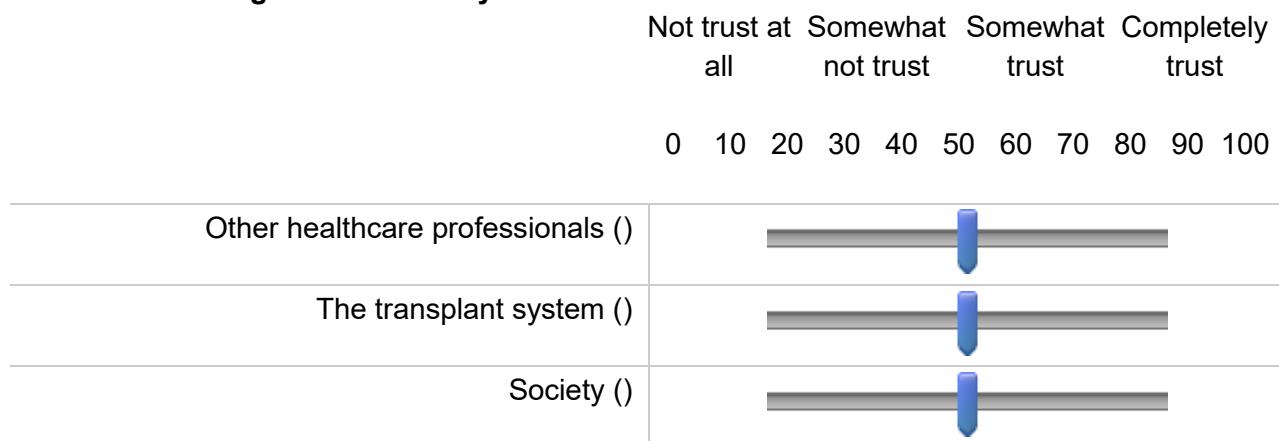

( )
-----	--

In the context of organ donation, how much would you trust that the following agents will try to make sure all organs will be used appropriately to help patients:

In the context of organ donation, how much would you trust that the following agents will try to make sure all organs will be fairly distributed:

In the context of organ donation, how much would you trust that the following agents will try to make sure all organs are used to save and improve lives:

In the context of organ donation, how much would you trust that the following agents will try to make sure that your loved ones or yourself will have available organs if you need them:

If you were working as a healthcare professional in organ donation, how much would you trust that the government and policymakers will...

Try to make sure that you have good working conditions ()
Try to make sure that your clinical decisions will be listened to ()

Is there anything else you would like to add to your answers in this block?

---

---

End of Block: healthcareprofessional

---